5. This Court has personal jurisdiction over Defendant as it has established contacts with the forum-including by voluntarily conducting business and soliciting transactions in the State of Texas-such as the exercise of jurisdiction over Defendant would not offend the traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice.

6. Venue is proper in this Judicial District under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1391(b) and (c) and 1400(b), because Defendant has transacted business in this district and, on information and belief, has committed acts of patent infringement and unfair competition in this district. Additionally, the matters in controversy arise out of the activities undertaken in this judicial district and Defendants are subject to the personal jurisdiction in this judicial district, and at least one of the Plaintiffs has a subsidiary within this district.

III. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

A. PLAINTIFFS' INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

7. FNH is a well-known manufacturer, designer and supplier of small caliber weapons, components, accessories and ammunition. Over time, FNH has demonstrated expertise in the sales, marketing, and distribution of small caliber weapons, components, accessories, and ammunition for military, law enforcement and commercial applications. Over time, FNH has secured valuable patents, trademarks, and copyrighted materials. Through extensive investment of time, labor, skill, and money, FNH has also created valuable trade secrets, confidential business information, and know-how.

8. One particular firearm design that has been successfully developed, marketed, and sold by FNH is the SCAR line of assault rifles. FNH has actively protected a broad range of intellectual property rights associated with its SCAR line of products, including through utility and design patents registered with the United States Patent and Trademark Office (“the USPTO”), trademarks registered with the USPTO, trade dress protection in the design and appearance of the SCAR line of products, as well as other forms of intellectual property protection.

Exclusive License to Cybergun

9. Cybergun is a recognized leader in manufacturing and distribution of air soft guns, model guns, air guns, paint ball guns, and electronic and non-electronic games relating to or using replicas of existing weapons, ammunition and projectiles.

10. On or about June 25, 2010, FNH and Cybergun executed a License Agreement whereby FNH granted to Cybergun the exclusive rights to manufacture, distribute, advertise, and sell, directly or indirectly, replicas of various firearm designs owned by FNH, including but not limited to the FNH SCAR line of firearms, in the form of air soft guns, air guns, and paint ball guns. Pursuant to the License Agreement, Cybergun is given express authority by FNH to prosecute infringement claims against third parties on behalf of or in conjunction with FNH.

Intellectual Property – Design Patent

11. Plaintiff FNH is the owner of all right, title and interest in and to United States Patent No. D641,824 (“the ’824 Patent”), entitled “Assault Rifle” that was duly and legally issued by the U.S.P.T.O. on July 19, 2011. Attached as Exhibit 1 is a true and correct copy of the ’824 Patent. Plaintiff FNH is the owner of all rights, title, and interest in and to the ’824 Patent and is entitled to sue for past and future infringement. The ’824 Patent is valid and enforceable.

Intellectual Property – Trade Dress

12. In 2009, FNH introduced the FNH SCAR (Special Combat Assault Rifle) assault rifle, today known by two different models including the FN SCAR 16 and FN SCAR 17. In addition to its distinctive appearance, the FNH SCAR line of products is renowned for its accuracy, enhanced modular trigger capable of being configured for single-stage or two-stage operation, and low-volume and magazine stoppage. Since its introduction, sales to consumers in the United States have exceeded $932 million.

13. The FN SCAR 16 is chambered for the 5.56x45mm NATO (.223 Rem.) cartridge and the FN SCAR 17 is chambered for the 7.62x51mm NATO (.308 Win.). Both the FN SCAR 16 and 17 models feature three user-interchangeable, freefloating, cold hammer-forged MIL-SPEC barrels with hard-chromed bores and A-2 type flash suppressors, with fully-ambidextrous operating controls, and have a sidefolding polymer stock that is fully adjustable for comb height and length of pull.

14. The FNH SCAR line of products has a unique, distinctive overall look, which consumers immediately recognize and associate with authentic, high quality FNH firearms. This unique and distinctive overall look, or trade dress, is characterized by numerous nonfunctional design elements and markings. All of these nonfunctional elements and markings combine to create a distinctive look that is associated in the minds of consumers with FNH, and with the high quality and performance that customers know and expect from FNH firearms. The distinctive trade dress of the FNH SCAR line of products (the “FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress”) is a protectable FNH trademark.

15. The FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress generally can be described as the overall look of the FNH SCAR firearm. While certainly not limited to these features, the FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress may include its depiction as both an assault rifle (SCAR-L) and battle rifle (SCAR-H), its folding assault stock, weight, length, the uninterrupted Picatinny rail on the top of the aluminum receiver, two removable side rails, bottom side rail, polymer lower receiver, M16 compatible pistol grip, flared magazine well, raised area around magazine and bolt release buttons. Together, these distinctive, nonfunctional elements, as well as others, combine to create the FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress.

16. Photographic examples depicting aspects of the FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress embodied in the firearms of Plaintiff FNH are below:

17. Photographic examples depicting aspects of the FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress embodied in the firearms of Plaintiff Cybergun are below:

18. The FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress is inherently distinctive. More particularly, the intrinsic nature of the unique FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress serves in the minds of consumers to automatically identify FNH as the source of the SCAR firearm independent of any words accompanying the trade dress, and consumers expect products with the FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress to have the same high quality as FNH's other products.

19. Additionally, Plaintiffs' extensive promotion of the SCAR line of products, the continuous and exclusive use of the unique and distinctive FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress by Plaintiffs, and the success that the SCAR firearms have achieved in the marketplace serves to further strengthen the association of the FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress with FNH in the minds of consumers. The FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress has acquired enormous value as an identifier of high-quality firearms and has earned substantial customer goodwill over the years that the SCAR firearms have been on the market in the United States.

20. By virtue of the unique and distinctive FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress, and its prominence in the U.S. market, consumers of firearms throughout the United States readily recognize, identify and distinguish FNH's SCAR firearms from firearms produced by other manufacturers.

21. The features that comprise the distinctive FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress are non-functional, as evidenced by the fact that there are many other commercially available firearms that compete with SCAR firearms, but these competing products are marketed and sold with product configurations substantially different in appearance from the unique and valuable FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress.

22. The FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress is famous and recognized throughout the United States (including Texas) and much of the world.

23. FNH is the owner of all rights, title, and interest in and to the FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress and is entitled to sue for past and future infringement.

Intellectual Property – Trademark

24. Still other examples of the intellectual property of FNH include at least the following trademark applications and/or registrations: (1) the word mark SCAR, U.S. Trademark App. Ser. No. 79/093,900 (Internat'l Reg. No. 1,068,037), attached as Exhibit 2; (2) the word mark SCAR, U.S. Trademark App. Ser. No. 79/053,575 (Internat'l Reg. No. 0,963,568), attached as Exhibit 3; (3) the mark FN & Design, U.S. Trademark Reg. No. 4,017,801 (Internat'l Reg. No. 1,048,702), attached as Exhibit 4; and (4) the word mark FN Herstal, U.S. Trademark Reg. No. 4,017,799 (Internat'l Reg. No. 1,048,700), attached as Exhibit 5. FNH is the owner of all rights, title, and interest in and to the above trademarks identified in Exhibits 2-5 and is entitled to sue for past and future infringement.

25. Although unregistered, yet another example of the intellectual property of FNH includes common law rights in the word mark MK arising from Plaintiffs' extensive use in commerce of the mark MK in association with firearms (and firearm replicas).

26. In addition to the trademarks owned by FNH, the trademarks owned by Cybergun include at least the following trademark registrations: (1) the word mark SOFTAIR, U.S. Trademark Reg. No. 2,989,797, attached as Exhibit 6; (2) the word mark SOFT AIR USA, U.S. Trademark Reg. No. 3,248,655, attached as Exhibit 7; (3) the word mark CYBER GUN, U.S. Trademark Reg. No. 2,644,922, attached as Exhibit 8; and (4) the mark CYBER GUN & Design, U.S. Trademark Reg. No. 2,837,671, attached as Exhibit 9.

B. DEFENDANT'S MISAPPROPRIATION AND INFRINGEMENT OF PLAINTIFFS' INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

27. Defendant is in the business of importing and selling as a wholesale distributor of airsoft rifles which can be used to fire BB pellets, paint balls, and other projectiles which are not bullets in the United States, including but not limited to the State of Texas.

28. Among these products are Defendant's ECHO 1USA ASC (Advanced Squad Carbine); ECHO 1USA ASC-H (Advanced Squad Carbine Heavy); Vega Force MK16; and Vega Force MK17.

29. Defendant has copied and misappropriated Plaintiffs' intellectual property in an attempt to trade off the innovation and reputation of firearms developed by, marketed by, and associated with FNH and/or Cybergun.

30. Accordingly, Plaintiffs seek injunctive relief and damages to prevent Defendant from misappropriating FNH's patented innovations, and from confusing and deceiving consumers of firearm products through the sale of infringing firearms copying Plaintiffs' patented features, trademarks and trade dress.

Defendant's Infringement of Plaintiffs' Design Patents

31. Defendant has made, used, sold, and offered for sale within the United States, and imported into the United States, firearms, including but not limited to Defendant's ECHO 1USA ASC, ECHO 1USA ASC-H, Vega Force MK16, and Vega Force MK17, that infringe one or more claims of Plaintiffs' '824 Patent. Following is a representative comparison:

| '824 Patent | Defendant's Firearms |

32. Defendant is not licensed under Plaintiffs' '824 Patent.

33. The damage to Plaintiffs from Defendant's infringement of the '824 Patent is severe and irreparable.

Defendant's Infringement of Plaintiffs' Trade Dress

34. In addition to selling products infringing Plaintiffs' issued design patent, Defendant manufactures, imports, markets and sells firearm products that are virtually identical to the FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress.

35. On information and belief, Defendant's firearm product was intentionally designed to imitate the FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress in order to trade on the goodwill and reputation for high quality associated with Plaintiffs' firearm products. A comparison between the FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress and Defendant's firearm product appears below:

36. Unlike Defendant's firearm products, other firearm products on the market feature product configurations significantly different from the FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress.

37. Plaintiffs have never authorized Defendant to use the FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress, and Defendant is fully aware that it has no such authorization from Plaintiffs.

38. Defendant's unauthorized use of the FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress is likely to cause confusion or deceive consumers into believing that Defendant's firearm products are genuine products of one or both of Plaintiffs, or are sponsored, licensed, authorized by, or affiliated, connected, or associated in some way with Plaintiffs.

39. Plaintiffs have suffered and, unless Defendant's wrongful conduct is enjoined, will continue to suffer, irreparable harm as well as monetary damage resulting from the infringement of the FNH SCAR Product Configuration Trade Dress by Defendant.

Defendant's False Advertising and Trademark Infringement

40. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference, as set forth herein, Paragraphs 1 through 39 of the Complaint.

41. Certain of Defendant's airsoft rifles are sold under the name "MK 16" and "MK 17." This name is confusingly similar with Plaintiffs' word mark MK used in association with Plaintiffs' firearms (including Plaintiffs' used of the marks "FN SCAR MK 16" and "FN SCAR MK 17”), wherein a consumer would confuse Defendant’s airsoft rifles as emanating from Plaintiffs.

42. Defendant also, without authority, uses the trademarks of Plaintiffs in the source code of its website at: www.jagprecision.com. In particular, various of Defendant’s web pages utilize the trademarks (or confusingly similar variations thereof) as metatags intended to attract additional consumers to Defendant’s website that offers the infringing firearms. For example, attached as Exhibit 10 is a print-out of the HTML code for www.jagprecision.com, which improperly includes at least the trademarks SOFT AIR, SOFTAIR, and CYBERGUN, all of which are owned by Plaintiff Cybergun.

64. Defendant's unauthorized use of Plaintiffs' registered trademarks (or confusingly similar variations thereof) has actually or has had the capacity to cause confusion, to cause mistake, or to deceive as to the affiliation, connection, or association of Defendant's firearm

69. As a result of Defendant's unlawful conduct, including as described above, Plaintiffs have suffered, are suffering, and will continue to suffer severe and irreparable harm and substantial damages, unless such infringement is enjoined by the Court.
